Welcome to a new care coordination Collab hosted by Birmingham City University. Learn new approaches and different ways of thinking from experts and other care coordinators and leave feeling inspired to apply new ideas to your role or organisation.

The first Birmingham City University's care coordination Collab will be taking place on Friday 23rd July 2021. The Collab is aimed at all those curious about care coordination. We invite care coordinators, policy leads, innovators and just those interested in the role to register for free tickets today and share in how we are shaping conversations around care coordination.

The Collab runs from 9:15 am to 1:00 pm (BST) and is centred on two key themes:

- Taking stock and looking ahead: What do stakeholders want to see moving forward.
- Making the role work better for you: Integrating and promoting the role across the primary care setting.

With presentations, workshops and live Q&As from care coordination experts and Birmingham City University staff. We look forward to seeing you!
